Human Brain - the next Battlefield

How far have illegal Human experiments been going on?

As Canadian government has a History of participation in Illegal Human Experiments, is there a strong possibility that government shielded criminals are again "in the shadows" and with pride participating/sponsoring atrocities?

SECRECY - A BASIC COMPONENT OF THE POLICY OF TORTURE

"SECRECY is a basic component of the Policy of Torture: It is essential to the structure of torture that everything takes place in secret, in the dark, beyond consideration of shame or account. When the torturer assures his victim ' no one will ever know', he is at once working to break the victim's spirit and bolster his own". From "Settling accounts with torturers"-LawrenceWelsher

Forbes Magazine and Our question: Are these the portable microwave weapons criminals are using in Canada ?

The Microwave Weapons That Could Explain criminals in Canada possibly attacking people with impunity

<https://www.forbes.com/sites/davidhambling/2020/10/20/the-microwave-weapons-that-could-explain-why-havana-syndrome-report-is-not-being-released/?sh=229688485482>

How these weapons work - There is no "conspiracy theory" about these weapons being deployed against individuals . Now, as the attacks are aimed at some of the initial perpetrators like CIA operatives, the truth is coming to light.

How do these criminal authorized to use these weapons kill/hurt "in the shadows" ?

The New York Times article:

U.S. Diplomats and Spies Battle Trump Administration Over Suspected Attacks

WHAT IS TORTURE?

Torture is universally accepted as:

"any act by which severe pain or suffering, whether physical or mental, is intentionally inflicted on a person for such purposes as obtaining from him or a third person information or a confession, punishing him for an act he or a third person has committed or is suspected of having committed, or intimidating or coercing him or a third person, or for any reason based on discrimination of any kind, when such pain or suffering is inflicted by or at the instigation of or with the consent or acquiescence of a public official or other person acting in an official capacity. It does not include pain or suffering arising only from, inherent in or incidental to lawful sanctions".

(Article 1 of the United Nations Convention Against Torture and other Cruel, Inhumane or Degrading Treatment or Punishment 1988).

Specifically, for an act to be considered as torture, all of the following elements must be present:
The act must have caused severe pain or suffering;

It must have been inflicted by or on behalf of or at the consent of a public official (such as the police or security forces);

It must have been committed for a specific purpose, such as to elicit a confession to a crime or to instill fear.

And human beings dehumanized and added to the government sponsored non-consensual human experiments, will be tested on, induced to kill themselves or later on "discharged".

While "working for the government", they will be labelled paranoids, "Conspiracy Theorists" (to use CIA coined convenient expression")

They are to be also known as "Target Individuals".

The Psychology of Genocide

Extracted from Robert J. Lifton book:

The Nazi Doctors: Medical Killing And The Psychology Of Genocide.

Psychological torture- the "No-Touch Torture": a set of practices used worldwide to inflict pain or suffering with deniability , leaving no evidence of physical violence. It includes the use of mind-altering drugs and threats of violence—as well as the exploitation of personal or cultural phobias, sleep deprivation, sensory disorientation, forced self-induced pain, solitary confinement, mock execution, severe humiliation and more. VOICES IN THE HEAD - THE TECHNOLOGY BEHIND IT

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

March 8th, 2010 marked the centennial of International Women's Day. In 2010, and every year, millions of women are raped by employers and colleagues, soldiers and members of armed groups, by partners, relatives, friends and strangers . (Amnesty International data) (HERE) Amnesty International reminds us that violence against women and girls is a global pandemic. Still nowadays, at least one out of every three women has been beaten, forced into sex or otherwise abused in her lifetime. The origin of International Women's Day (IWD) is firmly rooted in the labour movement and the struggle for justice and equality.

The history of illegal CIA/Canadian government human experiments and its ties to McGill University in Montreal.

Also called the CIA mind control program, MK Ultra is the codename given to an illegal Canadian/American program that included a number of illegal human experiments, in the style of Nazi experiments.

Documents : <https://www.clg.org/pdf/1/2/3/1/Application-for-Authorization.pdf>

THE EXPERIMENTS

" I will delete your memory! "

("Laura Silly", John Shea Insurance , Ottawa,CA)

Donald Ewen Cameron, a medical doctor, director of the Allan Memorial Institute, affiliated with McGill University, was a leading figure in the illegal program. Hundreds of U.S. and Canadian citizens were unwitting test subjects. Did the "family" at Shea replaced him?

"WOULDN'T IT BE GOOD IF WE ONLY HAD GOOD MEMORIES?"

(statement by a "Laura Silly" whoever , a "scientist" employed at an Insurance brokerage in Ottawa, Canada???????? She kicks ass!)

The brutality of participants in illegal human experiments of MK-Ultra, perpetrators that Robert J. Lifton describes as "desk professionals ", goes beyond words. Even as they see themselves as "nice" and "ass kickers"...they are just criminals, aren't they? Are these "professional harassers" any different from rapists, murderers etc...?

"Run, run! We are the bad guys!"!(by "Wendy" whoever, accomplice of Silly whoever "scientist" , the ones who "kick ass" in total deniability and impunity...)

Desk Professionals: Technology Standards and Standards development process

Standards and Compatibility DO matter
(All true even when non regulation is crucial as in White spaces, white times...)

Professor Robert Jay Lifton, American, psychiatrist chiefly known for his studies of Thought Reform and psychological causes and effects of political violence and wars, talks about the professionals as they participate in the program:

"Desk-professionals" are always involved in planning and organizing any project.

So is the case of "desk murderers" like Adolf Eichmann. The "desk professionals" who were in fact "desk murderers" as Hannah Arendt described them years later, were the ones in offices, in conferences, seminars, companies...Those who planned and organized the Holocaust without taking part in killings personally.

The "system works", only if a network of industry and technology experts are actively involved - this was well known by the Regime.

Technology experts, standards, recommended practices and secrecy are fundamental pieces of the game. It was then as it is now.

Many Nazi technocrats participated and appreciated the opportunity of "giving a hand" supporting and creating standards, solid standards.

Among them was Karl Fritzsche. As today's "tech consultants", desk professionals in the Nazi System had important and almost "divine" roles.

As Eichmann, Karl was "just a bureaucrat" (later a "desk criminal")

According to Rudolph Hoss, Karl Fritzsche, a technocrat, was the one who first suggested using poisonous gas for the purpose of mass murder.

By the way... Karl's name appears in many minutes of meetings, events and on but where is KARL?

Karl Fritzsche? His final fate remains unknown.

"The gloves are off"

Bronze mold of the gloves with which Eichmann was captured

Technology left behind:

Thousands of empty poison gas canisters used to kill in the "high tech" gas chambers - found in Auschwitz at the end of World War II

TECHNOLOGY - Pulsed Energy Projectiles - Portable Weapons (DEW)

"Early perpetrators become a scientific and moral elite and form a spiritual engine of biological necessity."

"The smaller genocide develops the technology, personnel (medical units), and institutional structure (killing centers) for the large genocidal act. But the prior event does more; it provides a shared sense, notably among the elite, that it can be done, that one can move from relatively amorphous imagery of victimization and triage for the act of total murder; and that it seems to work - a problem is solved.

There is a sense of achievement, a movement towards health..."

..."The rest of the population is not deemed ready for full knowledge; there is an ambivalence between secrecy tinged with shame and pride of achievement as the genocidal radius moves outward into an increasingly enveloping system of order and policy, of bureaucratic and technological arrangement."

NOTHING TO HIDE?

Privacy is the right for the self.

Those who steal it from you, either by force, deceit or any other means, with flawed justifications and abusive power, are not different from the rapist who feels empowered by violating another being's body and dignity.

Only now, when it comes to a human being privacy, they are empowering themselves through the violation of another being's self and soul.

The Eternal Value of Privacy - by Bruce Schneier 05.18.06 - WIRED.COM

"...Too many wrongly characterize the debate as "security versus privacy."

The real choice is liberty versus control.

Tyranny, whether it arises under threat of foreign physical attack or under constant domestic authoritative scrutiny, is still tyranny.

Liberty requires security without intrusion, security plus privacy..."

RAPE AS A POLICY OF STATE POWER

" You won't be raped, you might enjoy it "

Colonialist powers and acts of a sexualized violence, such as rape by institutions, enacted through individuals : " the intention is that of objectifying one human being, "treating them merely as things, or body-objects with no legitimate access to the future" (Marso, 2012).

Technology then and now, in rape as well, is part of the tools of the master's house, the preservers of Colonial Powers.

The Case of Djamilia Boupacha

Rape, today as in the past, used technology to "improve" results. In the case of Djamilia, the shock machine, beer booties , "hands" and handles were all "good technology of rape".

Documentary: "Pour Djamilia" by Caroline Huppert

The documentary is Djamilia's account of the torture and rape with the so called "good technology" : technology is good, torturers say, that "it looks like magic". The documentary It includes state torturers and racist statements to her before they "gave her pleasure" : "You won't be raped, you might enjoy it"

TORTURE PROGRAM - US

No Wonder Congress Wants to Hide the Gitmo Detainees - The

Atlantic, April 26, 2011 - by Andrew Cohen

Whatever else the latest Wikileaks dump says about our nation's inapt (and inept) handling of the terror-law detainees at Guantanamo Bay, the newly-revealed documents remind us again of the wide gulf between what Bush administration officials consistently told us about the prisoners and what was actually happening on the ground in Cuba.

President Bush called the men "the worst of the worst" when he knew they weren't. An attorney general of the United States, Alberto Gonzales, called the detainees "killers" when the clear and compelling evidence indicated otherwise. Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld went even further. He called the men "among the most dangerous, best-trained, vicious killers on the face of the earth." That we've known about these and many other risible contradictions for at least the past five years makes them no more acceptable today.

We were told these lies so that we would support the political and ideological priorities of the men who told them. We were told these lies so that we would not sooner start asking good questions about the legal justification for the way the Gitmo prisoners were being treated. In the words of Andy Worthington of The Guardian, "it was important to dehumanise the men held at Guantanamo, to give life to the myth that the prison held 'the worst of the worst.'"

The truth about Gitmo is that it was always a messy concept in theory and an unwieldy proposition in practice. It was (and obviously continues to be) full of ambiguities and contradictions itself. That's what the new Gitmo revelations say to me. It all makes you wonder where we'd be today -- how much lighter the stain would be -- if our elected officials and their subordinates had simply leveled with the American people right from the start.

As part of its comprehensive coverage of the leaked documents, The New York Times offered up a great piece Monday from Scott Shane and Benjamin Weiser. They wrote:

"As a public diplomat and (until recently) spokesman of the department of state, I was responsible for explaining the national security policy of the United States to the American people and populations abroad. I am also a retired military officer who has long believed that our civilian power must balance our military power."....

"Based on 30 years of government experience, if you have to explain why a guy is standing naked in the middle of a jail cell, you have a policy in need of urgent review. The Pentagon was quick to point out that no women were present when he did so, which is completely beside the point. "

The Dark Desires of Bruce Jessen, the Architect of Bush's Torture Program, As Revealed by His Former Friend and Colleague

by Andy Worthington - March 28, 2010

"Jessen's template for the "full exploitation" of prisoners, rather than just their interrogation, was designed to be used for propaganda purposes, "or other needs [of] the detaining power, such as the recruitment of informers and double agents." As he added, "Those aspects of the US detainee program have not generally been discussed as part of the torture story in the American press."

1977: Oscar Romero, a conservative priest, appointed Archbishop of San Salvador

1979: Bloodless coup by reformist army officers backed by the United States. Military-civilian junta installed in El Salvador. Torture, assassinations, kidnappings intensify.

Feb 1980: Romero visited Rome and argued that it was problematic to support the Salvadoran government because it legitimized terror and assassinations. He urged US President Jimmy Carter to reconsider American support and aid to the junta. Carter refused.

23 Mar 1980: Romero tells soldiers they are killing their own people

24 Mar 1980: Romero shot dead as he celebrated Mass. The assassins were members of a death squad trained and funded by the United States.

No-one has ever been convicted in connection with Archbishop Romero's murder.

"Specials" and "ALL SCIENTISTS, ALL SCIENTISTS !!!"

About the "Torture Program", a very interesting post at Invictus Blog - March 22, 2011

"Means and Ends: Newly Published Notes of Bruce Jessen Reveal Real Purpose of Bush's Torture Program"

<http://valtinsblog.blogspot.com/2011/03/means-and-ends-newly-published-notes-of.html>

Extracts:

"One of the primary reasons exploitation is used on prisoners is to produce false confessions. Indeed, it was the torture of Ibn al-Sheikh al-Libi that was used to provide the false intelligence about Saddam Hussein seeking nuclear materials that was to provide a major casus belli for the United States for their war with Iraq. "

"Up until now, the primary narrative surrounding the torture scandal has been about the purported efficacy of using torture to produce intelligence in the "war on terror." But the new Jessen material demonstrates that the program used as the basis for the "reverse-engineering" of the SERE torture techniques was a full-blown exploitation program, whose aims went far beyond the mere elicitation of information, but included the physical and psychological pressures to produce absolute compliance in prisoners for the purpose of false confessions, show trials, recruitment of spies, and medical experimentation."

"My end of the bargain was that I had to verbally repeat my story, agreeing with anything they added, even when they dictated my thoughts, beliefs and actions incorrectly. They also fed me things to say about other detainees as well. I did so obediently, even though I knew they were all lies."

By the way, where are the so brave, non ordinary, "special" "compliance scientists" who proudly embraced "interrogations" and who knows whatever else? Shouldn't these powerful and righteous "all professionals" , all "scientists" be speaking about their achievements with pride?

George Bush did...

And since they are , or believe to be , "special" , non ordinary people and above all "having more power than Bush", they should step up to their "values" and proudly take responsibility for their "scientific achievements". Isn't that how it should be?

Or are they, men and women, soooooo brave in the shadows but cowards in the light ?

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, has been working with "private security" and lobbying firms to attack and undermine "opponents".

The companies involved are, among others, Hunton and Williams, whose attorneys solicited private security firms HB Gary Federal, Palantir, and Berico Technologies (Team Themis collectively) to develop a sabotage campaign against certain "opponents".

The private spy company investigated members of the family, including children, of the so called U.S. Chamber of Commerce "opponents".

Aaron Barr, an executive at HB Gary Federal circulated emails and documents with personal lives details and even photos of the opponents' family including their children.

Details were revealed by one of the targets of the action - ThinkProgress.org.

In an email from Aaron Barr to Hunton & Williams attorney John Woods, he points out to the need of reducing exposure so that he won't be identified and shows how Woods and another fellow Hunton attorney Richard Wyatt are "vulnerable" in social media.

The three security companies - Palantir Technologies, HBGary Federal and Berico Technologies - were also implicated in a plot to target the online whistleblower WikiLeaks and some of its prominent supporters

Bradley Manning - at 16:46:43 min

On YouTube:

Transcript :

Clwyd: I want to raise with you the question of Bradley Manning, the US marine, who at present is in a military prison - untried and unconvicted - and the treatment that has been given him. He has been kept in solitary confinement over the past ten months, he is denied access to the normal things that one has every day. He is made to stand naked outside his cell every morning and so on and so forth. And as you know, Hilary Clinton's press spokesman has been forced to resign over the comments that he made over the treatment of Bradley Manning, calling it "counterproductive and stupid."

Bradley Manning's mother in Welsh, from Pembrokeshire. She has visited him recently and everyone is very concerned about his treatment. I wonder if you can raise it, or have raised it, because there is a lot of public interest in the treatment of Bradley Manning.

Hague: Well, on this particular case, Mr Manning's lawyer apparently wrote on the 2nd February on his blog that "Mr. Manning does not hold a UK passport, nor does he consider himself a UK citizen." Beyond that we can't comment on an individual's nationality without their consent. And in that situation, of course, our standing on this matter is limited. He is not asking for our help, nor considering himself British.

In general, conditions in US prisons do meet international standards. Solitary confinement is a procedure used in many countries. It is deemed to offer protection both to the inmate and those around them. It is for his legal representative to challenge his treatment, if they judge that his treatment fails to meet international standards.

The fact that it has been raised in this committee, of course, can be brought to the attention of the United States. So it can be, and will be. But our position, from a legal and a consular point of view is as I've just been describing.

Clwyd: Can I just say that his legal representative published an 11-page document a few days ago, which was a statement from Manning but also a complaint from his lawyer about his treatment. So as we are receiving letters from constituents on this particular subject, I will be coming back to you on this subject.

Hague: Well, do come back to me and of course I will write you a letter so you can correspond with your constituents.

State Department spokesman P.J. Crowley calls treatment of Bradley Manning "ridiculous and counterproductive and stupid." | The Cable

March 11, 2011 - by Josh Rogin

Article at:

http://thecable.foreignpolicy.com/posts/2011/03/11/state_department_spokesman_calls_treatment_of_bradley_manning_ridiculous_and_counterproductive_and_stupid

"I spent 26 years in the air force. What is happening to Manning is ridiculous, counterproductive and stupid, and I don't know why the DoD is doing it. Nevertheless, Manning is in the right place." There are leaks everywhere in Washington - it's a town that can't keep a secret. But the scale is different. It was a colossal failure by the DoD to allow this mass of documents to be transported outside the network. Historically, someone has picked up a file of papers and passed it around - the information exposed is on one country or one subject. But this is a scale we've never seen before. If Julian Assange is right and we're in an era where there are no secrets, do we expect that people will release Google's search engine algorithms? The formula for Coca Cola? Some things are best kept secret. If we're negotiating between the Israelis and the Palestinians, there will be compromises that are hard for each side to sell to their people - there's a need for secrets."

No more "shame" - SEXING TORTURE

Sexing in the "slow torture", "no-touch": The torturer's psyche and "protected impunity"

"... But stripping is also sexually laden. It transposes sexual gestures, acts and innuendo from a strip club to the torture chamber. Thus sex is always present in the torture chamber whether the victim is a man or a woman. The sexing of torture is deeply grounded in the recesses of the torturer's psyche.

Marnia Lazreg, Torture and the Twilight of Empire: From Algeria to Baghdad

"From 1950 to 1962, the CIA became involved in torture through a massive mind-control effort, with psychological warfare and secret research into human consciousness that reached a cost of a billion dollars annually - a veritable Manhattan Project of the mind." This research produced "a new approach to torture that was psychological, not physical, perhaps best described as 'no-touch torture.'" It has also been referred to as "slow torture".

Alfred McCoy - "A Question Of Torture: CIA Interrogation, From the Cold War To the War On Terror"

Sexing torture in the "stealth", "slow", "non touch" American Torture" hits the news and "SO WHAT?"

As torture, event after event, seems to be an integral part of American standard operating procedures and obviously goes unpunished in the United States, except for cases involving "few bad apples", an article on the "slow torture" of 22 year-old man accused of leaking documents:

The National Shame of the US Military's 'Slow Torture' of Bradley Manning

by John Grant - March 5 2011

<http://www.thiscantbehappening.net/node/494>

"... All right! Enough of the PR-flak Orwellian crap. Everyone with a modicum of sense knows why the Quantico jailers are stripping Bradley Manning. They are stripping him because they have the power to strip him and they want to strip him. And they know that the majority of Americans and the mainstream press don't give a damn what happens to this young man.

A friend asked me, "Why don't they just water-board him?" It's simple: They would if they could, but they can't. Manning is an American and he has advocates. They can't get away with the sorts of torture we used in the past in places like the Philippines and Vietnam and that the French used during their war in Algeria. The French experience is broken down and analyzed by Marna Lazreg in her book cited above based on archival research, diaries and interviews with torturers.

But do not fear: Our very resourceful and secret CIA learned from the French and, over the years with your tax dollars, added their own research on the topic. Here's Alfred McCoy from his great book A Question Of Torture: CIA Interrogation, From the Cold War To the War On Terror:..."
